

Concentrations & Emphases

Wofford offers additional areas study which are interdisciplinary in nature or specifically focus on one aspect of the student's chosen major. Typically, the interdisciplinary fields are open to all students while concentrations are available only to students pursuing a specific major. Concentrations and emphases are offered in the following areas (those that require a specific major, note that major in the parentheses below):

African/African American Studies
American Politics (Government)
Applied Math (Math)
Computational Science (One of the natural sciences, Computer Science, or Math)
Creative Writing (English)
Gender Studies
Information Management (Accounting, Business Economics, Economics or Finance)
Latin American and Caribbean Studies
Medical Humanities
Neuroscience
19th Century Studies (English or History)
Political Thought (Government)
Pure Math (Math)
Studio Art (Art History)
Teacher Education
World Politics (Government)

Specific requirements for each are found in the Departments, Programs & Courses (<http://catalog.wofford.edu/archive/2014-15/courses-programs-departments>) section of the Catalog.
