Theatre (THEA)

THEA 201. Introduction to the Theatre. 3 Hours.
This class covers script analysis, dramatic structure, production styles, and an introductory overview of acting, directing, design, and the technical elements of production. Crew hours on the current departmental production may be required.

THEA 202. Basic Elements of Production. 3 Hours.
This course covers the basics for set, lighting, and costume design for the stage. Students will be exposed to and gain practical experience in a variety of areas, including: set construction, lighting operations, sound systems, scenic painting, and stage management.

THEA 210. Stagecraft. 2 Hours.
An introduction to the technical aspects of live theatre and the creative problem solving skills necessary to successfully make the leap from page to stage. Students will be exposed to and gain practical experience in a variety of areas, including: set construction, lighting operations, sound systems, scenic painting, and stage management.

THEA 212. The Art of Acting. 3 Hours.
This class will introduce students to the basics of acting for the stage. Over the course of the semester, students will learn and participate in practical and challenging acting games and physical exercise, be exposed to the basics of character analysis, learn to think, move, and speak like an actor, and perform in a variety of solo and group projects including monologues and scene-work.

THEA 280. Selected Topics in Theatre. 1 to 4 Hours.
Selected topics in theatre at the introductory or intermediate level.

THEA 300. Ensemble. 1 to 4 Hours.
This course offers students credit hours for performing on stage in a Wofford theatre production. Attendance at all rehearsals, performances, and strike required. A maximum of 24 credit hours may be earned in THEA 300.

THEA 301. Acting I. 3 Hours.
This course is a continuation and extension of THEA 212, consisting of the further development of the basics of acting technique. Areas of focus will include training concepts such as ease, honesty, ensemble acting, sense memory, concentration, listening, imagination, risk-taking, and the actor's exploration and use of the social world. All students will participate actively in laboratory productions.
Prerequisite: THEA 212 with a minimum grade of D.

THEA 303. Directing. 4 Hours.
Students will develop a fundamental knowledge and skills base about the field of directing for the stage. This will include extensive creative projects; presentations on past and present stage directors; script analysis from a director's perspective; enhancing communication, audition and rehearsal skills; the development of a critical eye for directorial choices; and the performance of two scenes that the student will direct for public performance.

THEA 304. Movement. 3 Hours.
This class will investigate major influences in physical theatre, provide a practical study of the principles of movement for the stage with an emphasis on physical neutrality, and will begin exploration of various physical actor training methods.

THEA 305. Improvisation for the Actor. 3 Hours.
An introduction to one the fundamental tools of the actor's art, this course will offer students a rigorous exploration of the principles, skills, and applications of theatrical improvisation. Although "improv" is often identified in popular culture as a comedic, competition-based form of entertainment, the primary focus in this class will be on Stanislavsky-based improvisation, which emphasizes character, relationships, and collaboration. Improvisation work in this context stresses risk-taking, physical and emotional awareness, observation, intuition, imagination, and spontaneity.

THEA 320. Dramatic Theory. 3 Hours.
This course is an introduction to the analysis of dramatic literature and the history of dramatic theory and criticism.

THEA 321. Dramaturgy. 3 Hours.
An introduction to the theory and practice of dramatic composition and the representation of the main elements of drama on the stage. Examine the role of the literary advisor/editor in modern theatrical practice and explore dramatic structure as a means of achieving successful storytelling onstage. Analyze the dramatic structures of plays that span multiple eras and cultures, connect external research to production work, create dramaturgical packets for conceptual productions, and regularly share the results of research and creative work.
Prerequisite: Any 200-level ENGL course with a D or better.

THEA 328. Contemporary Drama. 3 Hours.
A study of major contemporary drama (1970 to present). Authors considered include Foreman, Churchill, Rabe, Kushner, Zimmerman and others. Also listed as English 328.
Prerequisite: Any 200-level ENGL course with a D or better.

THEA 350. Stage Management Practicum. 3 Hours.
Students serving as stage managers for departmental productions will schedule and run auditions, rehearsals, and shows under the supervision of the director. The stage manager is the point person for all communication regarding the production including the design/technical aspects and acting/directing. This course fulfills the stage management requirement for the theatre major. Instructor permission required.

THEA 375. Scene Painting. 3 Hours.
Students will learn scenic painting for the stage. Students will learn techniques and materials typically employed for large theatrical sets. Students will complete several painting projects while continuing to develop their own aesthetic sensibilities and creative talents. Instructor Permission required.

THEA 376. Playwriting Workshop. 3 Hours.
A course in creative writing focusing on plays. Cross-listed with ENG 376.
Prerequisite: Any 200-level ENGL course with a D or better.

THEA 380. Set Design. 3 Hours.
Working from the page to the stage, students will learn to design scenery based on script analysis, creative visualization, and directorial problem solving. This class also teaches practical skills in drafting, research, and model making. Success in this class may lead to design opportunities for departmental productions.
Prerequisite: THEA 202 with a minimum grade of D.
THEA 385. Period Styles. 3 Hours.
Based on Sir Kenneth Clark's timeless classic, Civilisation, art, architecture, music, furniture, fashion, literature, and political and social history from Ancient Greece to the early 20th century are explored to inform theatrical productions. Students will learn from slides, lectures and movie clips of the vast imagery available to theatre artists. Research and design projects are required. Instructor permission required.

THEA 390. Costume Design. 3 Hours.
Creativity is emphasized in this project-oriented course. The students will learn the complete process for designing theatrical costumes, hair and makeup. This course covers costume history, design, rendering and artistic conceptualization. Success in this class may lead to design opportunities for our departmental productions. Instructor permission required.

THEA 395. Lighting Design. 3 Hours.
Introduction to resources, equipment, and processes of theatrical lighting design. The primary focus is the formulation of conceptual lighting design ideas based on source analysis such as artwork, music, and scripts. Additionally, students will explore the different means of communication through research, sketching, drafting, and implementation of their designs using lighting equipment.

THEA 396. Digital Applications for Theatre. 3 Hours.
Utilize the basics of Vectorworks, Photoshop, and Wix as they apply in professional theatre. Create digital projects that include computer drafting, photo editing, stage renderings, personal resume, and a website containing an online portfolio.
Prerequisite: THEA 202 with a minimum grade of D.

THEA 400. Theatre Practicum. 1 Hour.
A special course of individual study and instruction wherein an advanced student of theatre may pursue a special interest such as set design, lighting, theatrical management, acting, or playwriting, under the direction of the instructor. Active participation in laboratory and major productions required. A maximum of 6 semester hours may be earned in Theatre 400.

THEA 401. Acting II. 3 Hours.
Continuation and extension of THEA 301, Acting I, with particular emphasis on character development. Through intensive scene work and special projects in characterization studies, we will expand the actor's emotional, intellectual, physical, and vocal expressiveness.
Prerequisite: THEA 301 with a minimum grade of D.

THEA 404. Advanced Movement. 3 Hours.
This course will provide an in-depth study of physical actor training for the stage. Through the creation of original theatre pieces, monologues, and scene work, the student will implement techniques learned in daily physical training.

THEA 410. Theatre for Youth. 3 Hours.
This course will contextualize Theatre for Youth through the study of the history and significance of this type of performance and then will use in-class exercises to create a strong ensemble of actors who will then collaborate on the creation, rehearsal, and performance of an original children's theatre script.

THEA 413. Devised Theatre. 3 Hours.
Working collaboratively, the class will choose and explore a topic/theme of particular interest to students on this campus and then plan, develop, rehearse, and perform a non-traditional theatrical production based on this theme.

THEA 424. African American Drama. 3 Hours.
This class deals with the creation of African American identity on the American stage from the early 19th century through the present. Readings are from the works of Baraka, Kennedy, Wilson, Parks, Hughes, and many others. Students will engage with issues of race, literature, performance, and authorship in class discussion, written work and oral presentations. Cross-listed with English 424.
Prerequisite: Any 200-level ENGL course with a D or better.

THEA 425. American Theatre & Drama. 3 Hours.
From James Nelson Barker's The Indian Princess (1808), to George Aiken's stage adaptation of Uncle Tom's Cabin, one of the most popular works of its period in both America and Europe, the close reading of nineteenth century American drama opens a fascinating window onto the creation of American identity. This class will address issues and ideas of nationhood, the frontier, gender, race and race relations, and popular and high culture. Cross-listed with English 425.
Prerequisite: Any 200-level ENGL course with a D or better.

THEA 433. European & US Drama, 1870-1950. 3 Hours.
A study of plays by late 19th- to mid-20th century European and American dramatists, for example, Ibsen, Chekhov, Strindberg, Pirandello, Wilde, Shaw, O'Neill, and/or Williams. Cross-listed with ENGL 433.
Prerequisite: Any 200-level ENGL course with a D or better.

THEA 438. Greek & Roman Drama. 3 Hours.
Selected Greek and Roman comedies and tragedies will be read in translation. The course will concentrate on the thematic, philosophical, and religious aspects of ancient drama. Cross-listed with English 438.
Prerequisite: Any 200-level ENGL course with a D or better.

THEA 440. Theatre Practicum. 1 Hour.
A seminar for advanced students. Subject matter varies from year to year. Instructor permission required.

THEA 476. Advanced Playwriting. 3 Hours.
One full-length two-act play, in addition to developing their craft through in-class exercises to create a strong ensemble of actors who will then collaborate on the creation, rehearsal, and performance of an original children's theatre script.

THEA 471. Independent Study - Design/Technical. 0 to 3 Hours.
A student initiated project, approved and supervised by a faculty member, integrating learning in the major.

THEA 472. Independent Study - Dramatic Literature. 0 to 3 Hours.
A student initiate project, approved and supervised by a faculty member, integrating the study dramatic literature with theatre production.

THEA 473. Independent Study - Performance. 0 to 3 Hours.
A course in which the student pursues independently, under the guidance of a member of the department, a specific topic of interest.

THEA 476. Advanced Playwriting. 3 Hours.
In this workshop, students will write at least two ten-minute plays and one full-length two-act play, in addition to developing their craft through writing projects and exercises. We also will read and discuss plays by such playwrights as Edward Albee, Tennessee Williams, and Eugene Ionesco. Actors will read each participant's work at a special presentation at the end of the semester. Class is conducted in a workshop format, and participants and the instructor will read, discuss, and analyze script pages in class.
Prerequisite: THEA 376 with a minimum grade of D.

THEA 480. Advanced Topics in Theatre. 1 to 4 Hours.
A seminar for advanced students. Subject matter varies from year to year. Instructor permission required.
THEA 490. Advanced Studies in Film. 3 Hours.
A topics course involving close study of specific directors, genres, or national cinemas. Topics will change from semester to semester. Screenings of feature films may be held outside of class. Students may take Theatre 490 for credit only once. Instructor permission required.